

We are ready for take off.....

I am looking forward to exploring the world with your children this year.

We will visit all seven continents: North America, South America, Antarctica, Europe, Asia, Africa, and Australia.

The first trip will be to North America.

We will learn some interesting facts about the countries of Canada, Mexico and the United States of America.

The children will receive passports for their travel adventures that they will bring with them each trip to be stamped as they enter the plane.

I will have a plane area set up in which we introduce the continent to which we will be traveling, sing The Continent Song, watch a great National Geographic movie about the continent and of course a snack will be served on the plane.

When we arrive we travel to the adventure side of the room, where the kids will receive a clipboard with a scavenger hunt paper attached. I will highlight different facts pertaining to the continent and countries; the kids will place a checkmark by the fact when we talk about it.

At the end of our adventure, my adventure friends will receive some "homework" expanding our experience together.

I love my job!!!
